

PRME Principles for Responsible Management Education

an initiative by the  United Nations Global Compact

Certificate of Membership

This letter certifies that American School of Management, Guatemala is a Signatory to the Principles for Responsible Management Education (PRME), an initiative of the UN Global Compact. American School of Management, Guatemala became a PRME Signatory on 27 May 2020 and joins over 800 business and management-related higher education institutions as part of the largest organised relationship between the United Nations and management-related higher education institutions.

PRME is a UN-backed initiative founded in 2007 and a global movement with the ambition to raise the profile of sustainable development in higher education and to engage students to deliver frameworks and action to solve society's global challenges.

Working through a set of Six Principles, PRME's focus is to engage business and management schools to inspire future leaders with the skills needed to balance economic, social and environmental sustainable development. PRME aspires schools to integrate the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) in research, education and partnerships and to inspire academic institutions with the work of the UN Global Compact.

American School of Management, Guatemala has committed to deliver a Sharing Information on Progress Report (SIP Report) every 24 months on its progress of embedding the PRME Principles into research, curriculum, and partnerships to drive the transformation of management education.

Mette Morsing, Head of PRME